Where are we?

The Coast Mountain College region is within the traditional territories of six distinct First Nations: Nisga'a, Ts'msyen, Gitksan, Wetsuwet'en, Haisla, and Haida. Within the six nations are 21 Indigenous communities with separate governing bodies.

Coast Mountain College also acknowledges our close neighbours, the Tahltan Nation, as well as the Inuit and Métis peoples in Canada.

Our campuses are part of or near the Great Bear Rainforest and are surrounded by coastal mountain ranges, rivers, and forests. This means we experience all four seasons.

How to Apply

You've chosen a program at CMTN, reviewed the requirements for admission, and decided to apply. We think you've made a great choice. Here are the steps to follow when applying for admission.

1

English Language Proficiency

You must meet the English language proficiency requirements for your program. If you do not meet the requirements with previous education, you can submit acceptable English proficiency test results such as TOEFL, Duolingo, IELTS. Check the list of listening, speaking, reading, and writing alternatives on our website.

2

Apply to your program

Apply using www.educationplannerbc.ca and pay the $100 CAD application fee (non-refundable). If an international education agency is helping with your application, don't forget to include the name of the agent on your online application.

3

Submit supporting Documents

Submit your supporting documentation, including your English proficiency test report, if needed. Be sure to include your CMTN student ID in the email subject title and send the relevant documents to admissions@coastmountaincollege.ca. Official transcripts must be mailed in a sealed envelope or faxed directly by the institution to Coast Mountain College. A notarized translation must accompany any transcripts that are not in English.

4

Conditional Qualification and Tuition Deposit

Once you have met the program requirements, you will be conditionally qualified for your program. The tuition deposit amount will be confirmed in your conditional qualification letter, depending on your program of choice. Your official acceptance letter cannot be sent until your tuition deposit payment is received.

5

Acceptance Letter and PAL

Congratulations! Once you have your official Acceptance Letter from CMTN and your Provincial Attestation Letter (PAL), you can apply for a study permit.

6

Apply for study permit

Complete your study permit application with Immigration, Refugees, and Citizenship Canada (IRCC). Be sure to submit all required documents with your application. Your study permit is the document that allows you to enter Canada to study.

7

Study Permit Approval

Once your study permit is approved, please email a copy of your Letter of Introduction (issued by IRCC) to international@coastmountaincollege.ca. This letter is NOT your study permit. You will need to show it at the Port of Entry when entering Canada to receive your actual study permit.

Student Support and Services

Advising

Whether you are navigating academic challenges or planning your professional journey, our CMTN Educational Advisors (EAs) are here to provide invaluable support. They can help you understand program requirements, select courses, and explore the various program pathways and partnerships available to you.

Learning Assistance

Whether you're seeking to enhance study skills or overcome difficult subjects, the Learning Assistance Specialist (LAS) Team provides one-on-one support for you to thrive in your studies. Throughout the year, student success workshops on such topics as writing proficiency, time management techniques, and strategies for avoiding plagiarism, are held.

English as an Additional Language (EAL) Support

CMTN wants you to succeed academically and integrate socially in Canada so you can have a well-rounded Canadian experience. We have EAL support opportunities through personalized guidance and resources for those who wish to enhance their English language speaking skills.

In addition to the supports provided by CMTN, external social service providers regularly visit campuses to keep students informed of the many community services that are available to them off campus. Some organizations that periodically set up information tables and share information include Skeena Diversity and other settlement organizations, Foundry and other youth wellness organizations, Service Canada, RCMP, Elections Canada, Elections BC, Work BC, and BC Transit.

Information Sources

The CMTN website carries up-to-date information for international students. This is where students can find housing options, both on and off campus, as well information about the region, transportation options, typical costs of rental accommodation, residential tenancy rights, and other important information for staying in Canada.

Financial Aid

Finances can be a challenge for all students. The CMTN Foundation and the College's financial aid office work hard to support students who need extra funds to complete their training. As of 2025, the CMTN Foundation offers eight awards and bursaries that are open to international students each year, totalling more than $13,000.

In addition, CMTN offers up to 12 international entrance awards per year ($5,000 CAD per award) for new international students from a diverse range of countries starting their first term of study.

Meet Our Graduates

Bushra Ansari

India | Class of 2024

Post-Degree Applied Coastal Ecology Diploma

Bushra Ansari fondly recalled her life as a student in her speech to the 2024 graduating class at Coast Mountain College (CMTN), emphasizing how her experience in Canada has shaped the way she finds courage in the face of fear and uncertainty.

She shared the highs and lows of this transformative phase of her life – an experience her fellow international students could resonate with. Bushra arrived in Canada in August 2022 and immediately felt a wave of panic, homesickness, and loneliness as the fear of failure and the unknown set in. “From being with my parents to now seeing them only through video calls..., you name it and I experienced it,” she reflected.

There is no one-size-fits-all process in navigating international student life, but Bushra has found the College to be a pillar of strength and refuge. She credits the support she received from the faculty and staff in overcoming her self-doubt. “The always ready-to-help staff, the education advisors offering solutions to academic problems, and the instructors taking time to listen and assist were incredible.”

CMTN is also where Bushra found her career calling. As the organizer for the Coast Mountain Student Union (CMSU), she regularly finds solutions to students’ needs, a role she takes on enthusiastically as the people she works for are her fellow students. “What I like best... is the opportunity to advocate for students and contribute towards improving their college experience. Organizing events, providing support, and seeing the positive impact on my peers is very fulfilling.

“The world needs us, our perspectives, our solutions, and our commitment,” she concluded. “Let’s step out with courage.” She then turned and left the stage, embodying the very courage she had called upon, ready to face the world and make a lasting impact as one of CMTN’s own.

Convocation 2024 | Smithers Campus

“You must prepare yourself for all possibilities, embrace the opportunity with an open mind, be ready to experience new cultures and remain patient and resilient as you settle into a new environment.”

Monica Barro
Philippines
Post-Degree Diploma in Business - Class of 2024

“Make very good use of the resources on campus as they are there for students’ use, such as learning assistance, library books, as well as student health and wellness programs.”

Emmanuel Ifojo
Nigeria
Associate of Arts Criminology Specialization - Class of 2024

International student in lab class at Waap Sa'mn (House of Spruce) | Terrace Campus
